

1. With a pen or pencil, darken in all the members of Ego's Patrilineage
2. Draw a single line around all the people that Ego lives with in his Patrilocal extended family.
3. Put an X in each of Ego's cross cousins and a // in each of his parallel cousins

4. Match one to one:
- | | | |
|------------------------|-----------------------|---------------------|
| MARKET EXCHANGE | REDISTRIBUTION | RECIPROCITY |
| | BARTER | SILENT TRADE |

_____ economic exchange system in which goods or money is collected by a central authority and kept until given to individuals and groups as needed

_____ exchange of goods for obligations among individuals _____ complex system of cash and accounting that results in situations like food at the supermarket and investment opportunities

_____ a cash purchase without cash _____ economic exchange by those who do not speak the same language but leave items for others to see, evaluate, and take

7. Match one to one:
- | | | |
|-----------------|----------------|-----------------|
| Balanced | General | Negative |
|-----------------|----------------|-----------------|
- _____ reciprocity of share and share alike
- _____ reciprocity in which people keep track, like American wedding gifts
- _____ reciprocity that is manipulated to your own advantage

8. Match one to one:
- | | | |
|--------------------------------|-----------------|-------------|
| CONSPICUOUS CONSUMPTION | POTLATCH | KULA |
| LEVELING MECHANISM | | MOKA |
- _____ Americans overspending to show wealth and prestige
- _____ Indians of Northwest Coast event in which a host gives away gifts
- _____ Melanesian event in which a big man gives away many pigs
- _____ circles of trade in ceremonial decorations studied by Malinowski

10. Answer either one of these questions, or both for a bonus:
- A. Give me any one of the three "object lessons" from the reading "Too Many Bananas".
- or B. "Ties that Bind", why did the Hopi send gifts to President Millard Fillmore?

PRINT your name _____

BONUS it turns out that the Yanomamo frequently break the rules of their own kinship system by redefining relationships and even lineage membership; why?