Student Loans

The Office of Financial Aid & Scholarships can assist you in determining your eligibility for low-interest student loans. If you are interested in a student loan you must complete a Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA).

To request information on graduate student loans, please call the Office of Financial Aid & Scholarships at 219-980-6777.

Tuition Payment Plans

Indiana University Northwest also offers several payment plan options. For more information, call our Bursar's Office at 980-6622. There are deadlines for participation so call today for details.

Fee Remission Graduate Assistantships

The School of Business & Economics offers several graduate assistantships each semester. A graduate assistant works 40 hours per semester in exchange for each course for which they receive fee remission. There is a small dedicated fee that the student must pay.

Duties of a graduate assistant include proctoring undergraduate exams, grading homework, assisting faculty with research, assisting with registration, etc. Due to the nature of the work, graduate assistants must be available for day and early evening assignments. For further information and application materials, call the Graduate Director at 219-980-6635.

Employer Tuition Reimbursement

Many employers offer a tuition reimbursement plan to their employees. We suggest that you check with the Human Resources Department of your company and ask for details about the educational benefits they offer.

Tax Credits

In the fall of 1997, The United States Congress passed the Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997. It created several new Federal income tax benefits, the Hope Scholarship Credit, the Lifetime Learning Credit, Student Loan Interest Deduction and the Education IRA. If you are interested in finding out more about these and whether you qualify, go to taxpayer.fms.indiana.edu
