E-MAIL INFORMED CONSENT

Indiana University Northwest Campus Health and Wellness Center (IUN-CHWC) provides patients the opportunity to communicate with their providers and administrative services by e-mail. Transmitting confidential patient information by e-mail, however, has a number of risks, both general and specific, that patients should consider before using e-mail.

General e-mail risks:

- E-mail sent to and from IUN-CHWC is not a secure or confidential form of communication. Patients should refrain from sending personal information or asking sensitive questions pertaining to specific health conditions when communicating via e-mail.

- E-mail can be immediately broadcast worldwide and be received by many intended and unintended recipients.

- Recipients can forward e-mail messages to other recipients without the original sender's permission or knowledge.

- Users can easily misaddress an e-mail communication.

- E-mail is easier to falsify than handwritten or signed documents.

- Backup copies of e-mail may exist even after the sender or the recipient has deleted his or her copy.

Specific patient e-mail risks:

- E-mail containing information pertaining to a patient's diagnosis and/or treatment must be included in the patient's medical record. Thus, all individuals who have access to the medical record will have access to the e-mail messages.

- Patients using their employer's e-mail system should have no expectation of privacy in e-mail they send or receive at their place of employment. Thus, patients who send or receive e-mail from their place of employment risk having their employer read their e-mail.

- If an employer read an employee's e-mail and learn of medical treatment, particularly mental health, sexually transmitted diseases, or alcohol and drug abuse information, they may discriminate against the employee/patient. For example, they may fire the employee, not promote the employee, deny insurance coverage, and the like. In addition, the employee could suffer social stigma from the disclosure of such information.

- Patients have no way of anticipating how soon IUN-CHWC and its employees will respond to a particular e-mail. Although IUN-CHWC and its employees will endeavor to read and respond to e-mail promptly, IUN-CHWC cannot guarantee that any particular e-mail message will be read and responded to within any particular period of time. Physicians, nurses, and other health care workers rarely have time during consultations, appointments, staff meetings, meetings away from the facility, and meetings with patients and their families to continually monitor whether they have received e-mail. Thus, patients should not use e-mail in a medical emergency.

- Patients requesting educational or health information via the IUN-CHWC website should understand that their requests will be responded to as soon as reasonably possible. The IUN-CHWC staff responding to website requests serve the health center in other capacities.

These staff members may be fulfilling other commitments at the time of your request. As a result, your request may not be responded to within the desired timeframe. If your request is urgent or an emergency, then other means of communication (i.e., telephone, or in person) with IUN-CHWC should be utilized.

Conditions for the use of E-mail:

It is the IUN-CHWC policy that it will make all e-mail messages sent or received that concern the diagnosis or treatment of a patient part of that patient's medical record and will treat such e-mail messages with the same degree of confidentiality as afforded other portions of the medical record. IUN-CHWC will use reasonable means to protect the security and confidentiality of e-mail information. Because of the risks outlined above, IUN-CHWC cannot, however, guarantee the security and confidentiality of e-mail communication.

Thus, patients must consent to the use of e-mail for confidential medical information after having been informed of the above risks. Consent to the use of e-mail includes agreement with the following conditions:

- All e-mails to or from the patient concerning diagnosis and/or treatment will be made a part of the patient's medical record. As a part of the medical record, other individuals, such as other physicians, nurses, physical therapists, business operations personnel, and the like, and other entities, such as other healthcare providers and insurers, will have access to e-mail messages contained in medical records.

IUN-CHWC may forward e-mail messages within the facility as necessary for diagnosis, treatment, and reimbursement. IUN-CHWC will not, however, forward the e-mail outside the facility without the consent of the patient or as required by law.

- If the patient sends e-mail to IUN-CHWC, one of its physicians, another health care provider, or an administrative department, IUN-CHWC will endeavor to read the e-mail promptly and respond promptly, if warranted. However, IUN-CHWC can provide no assurance that the recipient of a particular e-mail will read the e-mail message promptly. Because IUN-CHWC cannot assure patients that recipients will read e-mail messages promptly, patients must not use e-mail in a medical emergency.

- If a patient's e-mail requires or invites a response, and the recipient does not respond within a reasonable time, the patient is responsible for following up to determine whether the intended recipient received the e-mail and when the recipient will respond.

- Because some medical information is so sensitive that unauthorized disclosure can be very damaging, patients should not use e-mail for communications concerning diagnosis or treatment of AIDS/HIV infection; other sexually transmissible or communicable diseases, such as syphilis, gonorrhea, herpes, and the like; mental health or developmental disability; or alcohol and drug abuse.

- Because employees do not have a right of privacy in their employer's e-mail system, patients should not use their employer's e-mail system to transmit or receive confidential medical information.

- IUN-CHWC cannot guarantee that electronic communications will be private. IUN-CHWC will take reasonable steps to protect the confidentiality of patient e-mail but is not liable for improper disclosure of confidential information not caused by IUN-CHWC's negligence or misconduct.

- If the patient consents to the use of e-mail, he/she is responsible for informing IUN-CHWC of any types of information the patient does not want to be sent by e-mail other than those set out in paragraph 3, above.

- Patient is responsible for protecting his/her password or other means of access to e-mail sent or received from IUN-CHWC to protect confidentiality. IUN-CHWC is not liable for breaches of confidentiality caused by patient.

- Any further use of e-mail by the patient that discusses diagnosis or treatment by the patient constitutes informed consent to the foregoing. You may withdraw consent to the use of e-mail at any time by e- mail or written communication to IUN-CHWC receptionist.

By signing below I acknowledge that I have been fully informed of the risks associated when communicating protected health information (PHI) via e-mail. Having been fully informed, I am providing my consent for PHI to be communicated between me and my IUN-CHWC provider via e-mail. I also signify I have been offered a copy of the E-Mail Informed Consent form.
