

The one thing about IU Northwest that has changed my outlook on life is that here everyone's a family, and we all support each other. Even if you see someone struggling we don't just ignore them, we help them. We give our all because they're going to give us their all.