

It's really expanded my horizons.

The MLS

program at IU Northwest covers the arts and humanities, the social sciences, as well as the hard sciences. In fact, we are a truly interdisciplinary master's degree program.

Being here and going through this program has given me an opportunity to do things I might not have done before.

And the program has a lot to offer. You can really gear your master's degree towards your interest.

And of course it carries with it all of the resources and reputation that IU has built as a university statewide.